

List of things I am willing to tolerate in my relationship/partner	List of things I am not willing to tolerate in my relationship/partner
Different Interests: They don't have to love AI, coding, or philosophy as much as I do, as long as they respect my passion for it.	Secrets/Ambiguity with Others: Close, undefined relationships with other men (like the "Teacher incident"). I need complete transparency and strict monogamy.
Need for Space: If they need time alone or have their own friends, that is okay (since I also value my solitude).	Lack of Emotional Support: Ignoring me when I am crying, sad, or in pain (like the movie ticket incident). Being dismissed when I am vulnerable.
Imperfect Communication: We might argue or have misunderstandings, as long as there is an intent to resolve it without hurting each other.	Controlling Behavior: Telling me what to wear, how to walk, or how to behave to maintain their image or prestige.
Family Obligations: I understand being close to family (since I am close to my mom), provided it doesn't become toxic control.	Hypocrisy/Double Standards: Doing things with others that they refused to do with me (e.g., the alcohol situation).
Mood Swings: I have my own struggles with mood, so I can tolerate theirs, provided they don't take it out on me abusively.	Superficiality/Showing Off: Being obsessed with social status, money, or "showing off" to others. I value humbleness.
	Disrespecting my Mental Health: Calling me "toxic" for having OCD/Depression, or refusing to understand my struggles with triggers.
	Blind Faith over Logic: Letting external factors like Astrology or Caste dictate the fate of our relationship over our actual bond.

List of my traits I am not going to compromise on:

1. My Philosophical Nature: I am a "questions guy." I ask "Why?" about everything (life, existence, purpose). I will not stop thinking deeply or suppress my curiosity to seem "normal" for someone else.
2. My Sensitivity and Emotions: I feel things deeply (sadness, empathy for others/animals). I will not apologize for crying or feeling hurt. I won't pretend to be "tough" or unfeeling.
3. My Need for Authenticity: I hate faking things for society. I will not put on a show or act fake just to please others or maintain a social image.
4. My Relationship with my Mother: I am close to her, and I will not compromise on caring for her or valuing that bond.
5. My Career and Intellectual Interests: My love for Tech, AI, and learning is a core part of who I am. I will prioritize my growth in these areas.
6. My Need for Solitude: I sometimes need to be alone to recharge or process my thoughts. I will not compromise my right to have quiet time without feeling guilty.